

The Safe Drinking Water Foundation Award for Excellence in Education is given to teachers who have gone the extra mile in helping us to deliver our environmental education programs to students across North America.

The SDWF has given the SDWF Award for Excellence in Education to

Carri Hlady

We, at the Safe Drinking Water Foundation, believe that Carri Hlady deserves the SDWF Award for Excellence in Education because she displayed materials and answered fellow teachers' questions for our organization at the Science Teachers' Association of Manitoba Conference.

Carri's favourite thing about the Safe Drinking Water Foundation is its commitment to the education of students in regards to safe water and its conservation.

Her favourite thing about teaching is seeing the "light" (joy) in students' faces when they understand the concept.

Carri has been teaching for two years and she currently teaches at the Dauphin Regional Comprehensive Secondary School in Dauphin, Manitoba.

She believes that students gain an understanding of the importance of maintaining our aquatic environments and that we cannot afford to take this for granted as we all play a part from participating in the Safe Drinking Water Foundation's environmental education programs.

She has been utilizing the Safe Drinking Water Foundation's environmental education programs in her classroom for one year.

Carri utilizes the Operation Water Drop program in her classroom.

We would like to recognize Carri Hlady's passion for teaching by going the extra mile to help us in delivering environmental education programs to students across North America! We appreciate all of your efforts!

Are you a teacher who has gone the extra mile to deliver our programs to students? If so, please Contact Us and let us know what you've been up to! Thanks in advance for helping us in our efforts to deliver our environmental education programs to students!