Dear Dr. Peterson

The members of the Saskatchewan Women's Agricultural Network wish to be on record as supporting the aims and objectives of the Safe Drinking Water Foundation.

People who live on farms and rely on wells and dugouts for their water, or who have to haul their water over long distances know the importance of a steady, reliable, safe water supply. We are well aware that water is a precious resource that must be carefully guarded if its life-giving qualities are to be preserved.

We applaud the work of the Safe Drinking Water Foundation in studying the effects of environment, farming and other pursuits in our rural water supplies.

Sincerely,

Noreen Johns
